St. John, the Evangelist

The following brief sketch of the life of John, the Evangelist, will be read with interest:

John was a native of Beisaida, in Galilee, son of Zebedee and Salome, by profession a fisherman. Some have thought that he was a disciple of John the Baptist before he attended Jesus Christ. He was brother to James the Greater. It is believed that St. John was the youngest of the apostles. Tillemon is of opinion that he was twenty-five or twenty-six years of age when he came to follow Jesus. Our Saviour had a particular friendship for him, and he describes himself by the name of "that disciple whom Jesus loved." St. John was one of the four apostles to whom our Lord delivered his predictions relative to the destruction of Jerusalem, and the approaching fulfilment of the Jewish nation. St. Peter, St. James and St. John were chosen to accompany our Saviour on several occasions, when the other apostles were not permitted to be present.
When Christ restored the daughter of Jairus to life, when he was transfigured on the mount, and when he endured his agony in the garden, St. Peter, St. James and St. John were his only attendants.

That St. John was treated by Christ with greater familiarity than the other apostles, is evident from St. Peter's desiring him to ask Christ who should betray him, when he himself did not dare to propose the question. He seems to have been the only apostle present at the crucifixion, and to him Jesus, just as he was expiring upon the cross, gave the strongest proof of his confidence and regard, by consigning to him the care of his mother. As St. John had been witness to the death of our Saviour, by seeing the blood and water issue from his side, which a soldier had pierced, so his resurrection, which he made acquainted with his resurrection. Without any hesitation, he believed this great event, though "as yet he knew not the Scripture, that Christ was to rise from the dead." He was also one of those to whom our Saviour appeared at the sea of Galilee; and he was afterwards with the other ten apostles, a witness of his ascension into heaven. St. John continued to preach the gospel for some time at Jerusalem; he was imprisoned by the sahedrim, first with Peter only, and afterwards with the other apostles.

Some time after this second release, he and St. Peter were sent by the other Samaritans, whom Philip the deacon had converted to the gospel, that through them they might receive the Holy Ghost. St. John informs us, in his Revelation, that he was banished to Patmos, an island in the Aegean sea. This banishment is mentioned by many of the early ecclesiastical writers, all of whom, except Eppiphanius in the fourth century, agree in attributing it to Domitian. Sir Isaac Newton was of opinion that John was banished to Patmos in the time of Nero, but even the authority of this great man is not of sufficient weight against the unanimous voice of antiquity. Dr. Lardner has examined and answered his arguments with equal candor and learning.

It is not known at what time John went into Asia Minor. Lardner thought that it was about the year 66. It is certain that he lived in Asia Minor the latter part of his life, and principally at Ephesus. He planted churches at Smyrna, Pergamos, and many other places; and, by his activity and success in propagating the Gospel, he is supposed to have incurred the displeasure of Domitian. Irenaeus, speaking of the vision which he had in Patmos, says, "It is not very long ago that it was seen, being but a little before our time, at the latter end of Domitian's reign." An opinion has prevailed that he was, by order of Domitian, thrown into a chaldron of boiling oil at Rome, and came out unhurt; but this account rests almost entirely on the authority of Tertullian, and seems to deserve little credit. On the succession of Nerva to the empire, in the year 96, John returned to Ephesus, where he died at an advanced age, in the third year of Trajan's reign A. D. 100.

ASK the recovered Dyspeptics, Bilious sufferers, victims of Fever and Ague, the mercurially diseased patient, how they recovered health, cheerful spirits and good appetite—they will tell you by taking Simmons' Liver Regulator.
The cheapest, purest and best family medicine in the world.
It contains four medical elements, never united in the same happy proportion in any other preparation, viz: a gentle Cathartic, a wonderful tonic, an unexceptionable Alterative and a certain corrective of all impurities of the body. Such signal success has attended its use, that it is now regarded as the

J. H. ZELLIN & CO.,
Macon, Ga., and Philadelphia.

Your valuable medicine, Simmons' Liver Regulator, has saved me many doctors' bills. I use it for everything it is recommended and never knew it to fail; I have used it in Colic and Grubbs with my Mules and Horses, giving them about half a bottle at a time. I have not lost one that I gave it to. You can recommend it to every one that has stock as being the best medicine known for all complaints that horses flesh is heir to.
